

Homework exercises

Basic homework rules

- Indicate name, student ID and course name/abbreviation on each page.
- Don't copy from other students and don't hand your solutions to other students.
- Properly cite sources.
- Sign your homework with the phrase: "This is my own original work." + your name + signature.
Unsigned homework will not be graded.

Note: copying homework is fraud and will be treated as such. Consequences may include: no grade for the homework, banned from the course, or worse.

Rationale

The goals of the homework are:

- to help you gauge your understanding of the material,
- to help you identify gaps in your knowledge,
- to help you train for the exam,
- to reduce the weight of the exam.

Thanks to the homework, the exam does not need to ask in-depth questions about every subject that was treated. To achieve these goals, please keep in mind the following:

- Homework exercises are individual assignments.
If you have problems with the homework, consult book, lecture notes and your teachers.
- If you use other sources than lecture notes / slides, cite them.
Moreover, do not just copy: a substantial part of the text should originate from you, and not be copied.
- Indicate your name, student ID and the name (or abbreviation) of the course on each page.
- Respect the deadline.

Homework exercises count towards your final grade, just like the exam. This is also true for re-exams! Therefore, cheating on your homework is just like cheating on the exam. In particular:

- Copying from other students is cheating.
- Copying from sources without proper attribution is cheating.
- It is obvious to see that a piece of homework is copied.
- It is impossible to tell which is the copy, and which is the original. So: to us, both are copies.
